THURSDAY, MAY 28, 1857.

THE DECLINE OF FRANCE.-The publication of the last French census developes the fact not only that the ratio of increase of the population of the empire is rapidly diminishing, but that the provinces are emptying their people at a fearful rate into the cities and large towns. These striking marks of decay have recently been made the subject of extended discussions by the English press, in which we may be sure they lose none of their proper significance. So far from this, they have been drawn out under the force of British logic into the utmost tension of their meaning, and fortified by all the additional signs of French degeneracy which the keen scent of national prejudice could detect.

The case, after making due allowances for the coloring of British zeal, is truly a startling one, and well adapted to awaken serious thought in other countries as well as in France, since everything 'that throws light upon the secret of national thrift or decay is of vital concern to even the most pros perous of nations. The ground on which the English publicists rest the assertion of French decay is, beside the leading indications already noticed, the fact that the standard of height in the French arusy has been repeatedly reduced within the last fifty years, suggesting if not justifying the inference that the French are physically a smaller people than they once were, and generally that France has retired from the field of conquest and colonization on which she wrestled with so much success before the Revolution, without exhibiting similar energy on any law, and who appear to manifest more interest in the other field. Though it is probable that these latter promotion of their family interests than the public considerations are thrown in chiefly or merely to add good which they were appointed and sworn to proa finishing shade to the picture. They do not at all tect and foster. It is alleged that in place of runevents appear to be very satisfactory. However ning with two separate trains, one of them "doubles" this may be, such are the material points of the question as put by the English writers. Their ex- to the futherance of his private interests. They planation of it is, briefly, that, in the first place, the vitals of French society have been paralyzed by the war Napoleon with their far-reaching consequences, and, secondly, that, to complete the national sterility, the land system established by the Revolution, through the excessive division and subdivis- fit to open Parliament by commission instead of in ion of estates which it exacts, strikes fatally at the very source of production and population. Other grand spectacle for the material of which, whether it subordinate causes to be sure are assigned in abundance, according to the passion or idiosyncrasy of considerably exceeding the salaries of our President the writer, but these are the great and fruitful ones in which all alike concur. This is the problem and its solution as given by the ablest and most dispassionate of the British jour- lege of blowing it to his heart's content. nals. The reply of the French writers is various but in no respect conclusive. Indeed, the effect of all that we have seen from Frenchmen on this subject is rather to deepen the impression left by the arguments of the more 'emperate of their rivals across the channel. Of those who have yet come forward to grapple with the subject, the most eminent are Legoyt and LePlay, the former Chef de Bu reau in the statistical departent of the Ministry of the Interior, and the latter a Conncillor of State who has distinguished himself by his contributions to politico-economical and social science, especially by a work of great merit on the condition of European workmen. Neither of them, in our judgment, overthrows the alarming hypothesis of bis adversaries. The latter, in fact, does not attempt it. On the contrary he expressly concedes the substantial validity of that hypothesis. "The Times," says M. LePlay, "argues that our race has singularly declined since the close of the last century in all that concerns physical development and the force of reproduction; it adds that France, in this respect, has far from partaken of European progress. I am obliged to acknowledge the correctness of this fact, and of the two canses assigned to it by the English writer. first cause is evident. The wars of the revoluand of the Empire during twenty years resuld in withdrawing from France or in entailing death on the field of battle of several millions of men the company present. R. F. Fuller has been appointed general ticket agent of the Little Miami railroad, in place of Gen chosen from the prime of the nation; no European race had been submitted, for many centuries past, to such a trial. The second cause pointed out by Strader.

the Times is the system of forced division of hereditary possessions, to which the country had been subjected since 1793. The opinions given by the Times on the latter point are in some respects of too absolute a character, though they are admitted as evident truths in England and in the United States. Not a man either educated or ignorant, rich or poor, Whig or Tory, would comprehend the necessity of discussing that question. All Anglo-Normans in the two hemispheres are convinced that the unheard-of extension of their race is due, above all, to the absolute liberty they enjoy in the transmission of their property." This is virtually yielding the whole question in dispute. M. Lel'lay logically capitulates.

M. Legoyt, however, does not give it up thus. Admitting, as all parties do, the diminution of the growth of French population, he maintains that it is owing purely to accidental causes This might do very well if he omitted to descend to particulars. But when he gravely mentions the cholera, the price of provisions, and the Crimean war, as the active causes of so early, wide-spread, durable, and augmenting an effect, he forfeits the plansibility of his position and sinks to the level of a mere theorizer. His statistics are doubtless reliable enough, but the speculations he bases upon them are scarcely more legitimate than the visions that rise before his sleeping spirit. It is not at all surprising that they should be generally dismissed, even by Frenchmen themselves, as utterly inadequate to explain the result. Such are the vagaries of men of facts. In spite of the proverbial veracity of figures, we believe that statisticians are really the wildest reasoners under heaven. Like those crooked-legged water-fowl that rarely leave their native element, they rise with extreme difficulty, but, when once on wing, they soon fly out of sight. But this by the way.

As the case now stands, we must think, with many of her most sagacious statesmen, that France, beneath the superficial glitter of the empire, is at heart smitten with torpor and decay. That she is irretrievably smitten does not follow, and, whatever degree of force their may be in the still ananswer- ton ed if not unanswerable strictures of the English press, we trust that she will recover herself in the future, and go forward to a destiny befitting her glo-

CANADA.-The Canadians are greatly in want of a little wholesome practical philosophy. They need the discipline of Poor Richard sadly. The public debt of Cauada, incurred we believe almost wholly in the construction of public improvements, is at present not far short of fifty millions of dollars, with the prospect of being more before it is less, and without any definite prospect of ever being less. In fact, the colony seems hopelessly involved. This unpleasant state of affairs results no doubt chiefly from the facility with which the Canadians have always obtained loans from the Home Government, and the consequent resistless temptation to prosecute splendid public enterprises with no adequate basis in the necessities of trade and commerce. Canada has for the last ten or fifteen years been making a prodigions show on borrowed capital, and, now that the groundwork is at length touched, the flaunting superstructure begins to topple. If the people had known how they came by their money, they would have been exceedingly apt to know how they spent it. As it was, they did as all thriftless people with money at their command do, made it fly, without a thought of the future. The future, however, is never to be put off in this way, and, in the case of the Canadians, it threatens to be rigorous, if not unrelenting. Their only consolation is, that, if experience keeps a dear school, speudthrifts, like other fools, will learn in no other.

We hear of constant complaint concerning the mail service between this city and Indianapolis. There are two agents on the ronte who sustain to each other the relatiouship of father-in-law and son-in the road daily, while the other devotes his attention thus put money in their purses, but do not fulfill the solemn obligations they took upon becoming servants of the Government.

John Bull we see is indulging in a little wholesome grumbling because the Queen thought person, thus defrauding the jolly old fellow of the comes off or not, he is annually taxed an amount and all his Cabinet together. It to rather hard. We condole with John. After paying so dear for the whistle, he ought by all means to enjoy the privi

TRIAL OF A STEAM PLOW .- A steam plow was tested at Francisville, on the New Albany and Salem Road, one day last week. The soil was quite wet, and altogether unfavorable for the trial, but the Lafayette Conrier understands from a gentleman who was present on the occasiou, that the practicability of the invention was satisfactorily demonstrated A number of plows were attached, and the soil laid open to the depth of eight or ten inches. From the experiment made it was thought that two men could plow twenty acres a day with the steam plow.

RIOTERS ARRESTED .- Yesterday P. W. Bibb and Nick Bemar, who were indicted by the Grand Jury for murder, having participated in the negro mob, were arrested and lodged in jail. Mr. Bibb has been for many years a hotel keeper in this city. "Nick" is a carrier for a city paper, and when taken prisoner by the officer made violent demonstrations with his thro.t. He and his bundle of papers were however both taken captive with but little difficulty.

MILITARY MEETING .- There will be a meeting of the new military company, which was organized last Saturday night in the circuit court room, to-night at 8 o'clock. Committees will report, officers will be elected, and other husiness of great importance will be attended to. We hope to see every member of

THE NEW MILITARY COMPANY.-There was an adjourned meeting in the circuit court room last evening of the new military company. The attendance was large, and the utmost spirit manifested by the members.

T. W. Gibson, Esq., resigned the 1st Lieutenancy expressing his preference to be in the ranks. Mr. Redick Anderson was chosen to supply the vacancy. Major John D. Pope was elected Orderly Sergeant by acclimation.

The reports of the Committee on Constitution, Uniform, &c., were recommitted. We understand that the old Continental uniform is the most popular with the members.

At the conclusion of the meeting Capt. Penhe baker formed the company into liue, and drilled them in aereal evolutions. We have never seen a finer looking body of young men. They are all gallant, accomplished, and chivalric, and will form a corps creditable to the city and to the State.

An addition is being made to the City Court House, on the corner of Sixth and Jefferson streets, which will contain commodious, convenient, and secure offices for the Auditor, Treasurer, and Assessor. These officials have for a long time been very nnpleasantly situated in the old Court House, subjected to all manner of inconveniences, and the important public records and documents in their care have been very insecure.

MILITARY MEETING To-NIGHT .- It is earnestly desired that all persons in the upper wards of the city wishing to assist in the formation of a military company should meet at the Lafayette engine house tonight. There is enough proper material in that sec-

WHEAT CROP IN ARKANSAS .- A letter to the Little Rock Gazette says: Ten days have brought about a wonderful change in the vegetable kingdom. Cotton has come up remarkably well, and the corn is looking very fair. The prospects of wheat crops, from being gloomy, are now very flattering indeed, and I have no doubt but that Arkausas will increase her wheat crop this year twenty-five to fifty per cent, on any previous one.

DESIGN FOR THE CLAY MONUMENT .- Our citizens, who are lovers of art, will be gratified to know that the designs of T. D. Jones, the distinguished sculptor, are now on exhibition at Messrs. Evarts & Murton's. We have never seen any thing more appropriate to the memory of Henry Clay, or worthy of what is truly high art, than the principal

FIRST IN MARKET .- Messrs. Nock, Wicks, & Co., agents for Chas. L. Holland's Virginia pound tobacco, are in receipt of a consignment made from the new crop. It is the first of the season. Holland's tobaccos are celebrated, but in this new brand he seems to have eclipsed even himself. Those who use the weed should give it a trial.

SENTENCE OF DR. BIEGLER, THE ABORTIONIST. Dr. Beigler, who, it will be remembered, produced abortion upon his servant girl, Amelia Murr, and has been undergoing trial for the crime, iu Buffalo, N. Y., was sentenced there day before yesterday, the 25th, to hard labor in the State prison at Auburn, for seven years—the heaviest penalty of the law.

CUMBERLAND PRESENTERIAN GENERAL ASSEM BLY .- Mr. A. F. Cox, editor of the Watchman and Evangelist, in this city, received, after the Kentucky edition of his paper had gone to press, a letter from Lexington, Mo., where the General Assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church is in session. From this letter, handed us by Mr. Cox, we learn that the Assembly met on the 21st inst. The services began by reading a portion of Scripture, by Rev. Le Poy Woods, of Iudiana; singing, and prayer by Rev. Caleh Weedin, of Ky.; and sermon by Rev. Milton Bird, Mcderator. Ninety-five delegates answered to their names, and others are still arriving. Rev. C. P. Read, of Tenn., was chosen Moderator, and Rev. W. B. Waterson, of Tenn., and Rev. S.

The delegates appointed to attend the Congregational Association of Massachusetts, and New Hampshire, and Rhode Island, reported, and their reports represent that the two last named bodies had dedined further corespondence with this Assembly, on the ground that the Assembly decline any remonstrance for these bodies or their delegates on the subject of slaveholding, for the reason that continued correspondence under the circumstances would be inconsistent with the views and principles of these Associations. with the views and principles of these Associations. The Massachusetts Association did not adopt this course, but sent down a proposition to adopt it for the consideration of its subordinate Associations.

Rev. C. C. Jones, D. D., was appointed as principal to preach the annual sermon on Domestic Missions before the next General Assembly, and Dr. J. L. Kirkpatrick, his alternate.

The order of the day was taken up, viz: The consideration of the report of the committee on the re-port of the Board of Foreign Missions. Rev. Dr. J. Leighton Wilson, one of the Secretaries of the Board, who had been seventeen years a Missionary in Africa, addressed the Assembly, making some general statements in regard to the work of the Board, and the increasing demand for extended operations. The work is progressing, the health of some Missionaries has failed, which is a discouragement. New labourers are offering their services to ment. New laborers are offering their services to the Board. Converts have multiplied, especially among Indian tribes. Over seventy have been added tion to form a splendid corps of citizen soldiers, and we hope to hear of a very full meeting.

THURSDAY EVENING, MAY 28, 1857.

The Supreme Court of Indiana has just made an important decision. It was on an appeal from the Morgan circuit court. The case was a motion for execution on a judgment upon a forfeited recognizance. A remission of the judgment by the Governor was relied on to defeat the motion. The remission was granted, December 20, 1852. The court overruled the motion: 1st. Because it was granted in violation of an act which provided that all applicants to the Governor for the remission of fines and forfeitnres are required to forward to him with their application, the opinion of the propriety of so doing of a majority of the following officers in the county where the fine was assessed or forfeiture occurred, viz: the clerk of the circuit court, auditor, sheriff, county treasurer, and such officers as shall from time to time have the care and custody of the common school fund within the county. All these officers remonstrated against this remission before it was granted. 2d. Because, if the act aforesaid was not in force at the date of the remission, the Governor had no authority to grant remissions in any case, as the State constitution of 1851, which declares that the Governor shall have power to remit fines and forfeitures under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, confers no authority on the Governor without some law regulating its exercise to remit fines and forfeitures.

REMARKABLE PROCEEDINGS OF THE FIREMEN AT KINGSTON, UPPER CANADA.-On Tuesday of last week there was a fire at Kingston, which destroyed eighty houses, and what is remarkable, the firemen of that city, in consequence of some misunderstanding with the city authoritics, looked on without lending the least aid in extinguishing the flames; and not only refused to work themselves, but some of them aided in preventing volunteers to work the engines. The consternation of the citizens had become very great, when the Mayor hired men at a dollar each to work the engines. After raging for more than two hours, the flames were subdued. A special meeting of the city corporation and of the fire department was held the next day, when a reconciliation took place, and the fire department resumed their

THE MUSSINA CASE. - The snit of Jacob Mussina against Charles Stillman and others for the snm of $500,000, was commenced before the Supreme Court in New York city, on the 13th instant. This suit grew out of a dispute concerning the ownership of the land upon which the town of Brownsville, Texas, now stands. This, and another case, in which Judge Watrous, of Texas, is one of the defendants, involve the sum of nearly a million of dollars, and some questions of great political interest, out of which has grown the resolution of the Judiciary Committee of Congress to impeach Judge

The steamer Circassian brought to Portland a company of about two hundred persons from Wales, bound to the State of Tennessee, where they have purchased lands and intend to locate themselves. They are accompanied by their pastor, Rev. Mr. Roberts, who is the chief of the party.

Mr. Morse, late special Commissioner to Bogota, has arrived in Washington. He has no doubt of the eventual settlement of the difficulty between New Grenada and the United States in a manner satisfactory to both republics.

Forty-five vessels landed the large quantity of 14,291 hhds. sugar, and 2,779 hhds. molasses at the port of New York, during the three days which ended on Sunday last.

THE VARIETIES.

From the Rio de Janeiro papers of the 4th of April we learn that the Brazilian government adheres to the proposition of the United States to abolish privateering and to exempt all private property from seizure by ships of war. It is officially announced that the Brazilian government is ready to accept this as a new national jurisprudence. The yellow fever was declining in the harbor, but about twenty persons died each day in the city of the disease.

A gentleman residing in New York celebrated the sixth anniversary of his marriage a few days since by sending his wife a beautiful basket of flowers and a deed for a $60,000 house on Fifth avenue.

The Morgantown (Va.) Star of last Thursday states that there had been frost in that vicinity every morning during the week.

The repeal of the usury laws is now being agitated in Virginia.

During the last seven weeks $7,877,630 worth of real estate has been sold in New York.

A letter from New York says:

On Thursday morning two well dressed females, about thirty years of age, called at Stewart's, in Broadway, under pretence of buying silk dress patterns. A great variety was shown them, but they left without purchasing. In the afternoon they returned, and again proceeded to examine silks, of which a large quantity was shown them. While admiring the goods, the clerk observed one of them putting two pieces, valued at $250, in her companion's pocket. He sent for a policeman and had them ion's pocket. He sent for a policeman and had them taken into custody. The clerk then proceeded to examine his stock with a view of ascertaining whether they had stolen any silks at the time of their first visit, and soon discovered that two pieces of silk, valued at $250, were missing. The apartments of the women were then searched and the missing silk was found in a trunk. The prisoners were committed for trial. Probably the greatest leap on record was made one day last week at the Helena Shot-tower, Wisconsin. A horse, some twelve years old, jumped from the bank over a perpendicular precipice of one hundred and eighty feet into the river below, and came out safe and sound, after swimming nearly half a mile to a suitable landing place. The water at the point where the leap was made was from twenty to twenty-five feet deep.

The ice dealers of New York have fixed their prices for the season, increasing it over last. They give twelve pounds daily for six cents, while last season they gave fourteen pounds for that sum.

One of the Limerick Journals (the Reporter) One of the Limerick Journals (the Reporter) writes in a tone of alarm at the continuance of the population drain. The people, it is said, are literally flying in thousands from the Irish shores. If the emigration proceeds at this pace, the Limerick Journal fears there will not be hands to till the soil.

One of the important financial schemes of the day is the projected sale of the public works of Pennsylvania. These works, embracing her leading railroads and canals, have cost the Commonwealth a large snm of money, and at this time are not as productive as they might become under individual management. These works were offered at public sale two years ago, but the price limited by the Legislature was not offered. The total cost of these works has been above thirty-two millions of dollars, and the aggregate revenue from them up to Decemtoll-houses, offices, stock, and materials.

Is a Cold Climate Bracing?-I was at first a little Is a Cold Climate Bracing?—I was at first a little surprised to find the natives of the north so slow, indolent, and improvident. We have an idea that a cold climate is bracing and stimulating—ergo, that the further north you go, the more active and energetic vou will find the people. But the touch of ice is like that of fire. The tropics relax, the Pole benumbs, and the practical result is the same in both cases. In the long, long winter, when there are but four hours of twilight to twenty of darkness—when the cow are housed, the wood cut, the ness—when the cows are housed, the wood cut, the hay gathered, the barley bran and fir bark stowed away for bread, and the summer's catch of fish salted—what can a man do, when his load of wood or hay is hauled home, but eat, gossip, and sleep?

To bed at nine, and out of it at eight in the morning specime and dozing between the slow per-ing, smoking and dozing between the slow per-formance of his few daily duties, he becomes at last as listless and dull as a hibernating bear. In the summer he has perpetual daylight, and need not hnrry. Besides, why should he give himself special trouble to produce an unusually large crop special tronble to produce an unusually large crop of flax or barley, when a single night may make his labors utterly profitless? Even in midsunmer the blighting frost may fall. Nature seems to take a cruel pleasure in thwarting him; he is fortunate only through chance; and thus a sort of Arab fatalism and acquiescence in whatever happens takes possession of him. His improvidence is also to be ascribed to the same cause. Such fearful famine and suffering as exists this winter in Finland and Lapland might no doubt have been partially pre-Lapland might no doubt have been partially pre-vented, but no human power could have wholly forestalled it.

No Kissing Allowed .- So far as regards their moral character, the Finns have as little cause for reproach as any other people. We find them as universally honest and honorable in their dealings as the Northern Swedes, who are not surpassed in the world, in this respect. Yet their countenances express more cunning and reserve, and the virtue may be partly a negative one, resulting from that indolence which characterizes the Frigid and the Torrid Zones. Thus, also, notwithstanding physical signs which denote more ardent animal passion than their neighbors, they are equally chaste, and have as high a standard of sexual purity. Illegitimate births are quite rare, and are looked upon as a lasting shame and disgrace to both parties. The practice of "bundling" which until recently was very company among Finwhich, until recently, was very common among Finnish lovers, very seldon led to such results, and their marriage speedily removed the dishonor.

Their manners, socially, in this respect, are curiously contradictory. Thus, while both sexes freely mingle in the bath, in a state of nature, while the women unbesitatingly scrub, rub, and dry their husbands, brothers, or male friends, while the salutation for both sexes is an embrace with the right arm, a kiss is considered grossly immodest and improper. A Finnish woman expressed the greatest astonishment and horror, at hearing from a Mr. Woolley that it was a very common thing in England for husband and wife to kiss cach other. "If my husband were to attempt such a thing," said she, "I would beat him about the ears so that he should feel it for a week." Yet in conversation they are very plain and unreserved, though by no means gross. They acknowledge that such things as generation, gestation, and parturition exist, and it may be that this very absence of mystery tends to keep chaste so excitable and imaginative a race.

A MONTH LATER FROM NEW MEXICO. — The Western mail brings us letters and papers from Santa Fe to the latter end of April.

The Gazette reviews the depredations committed by the Indians during the month of March, and states that they have been greater than for many years past in the same month. On the 8th or 9th of March, the Navajos took 3,400 sheep from a man named Lucero, but a thousand were afterwards recaptured at the sacrifice of having eight men wo ded. Within eight miles of Albuquerque, the dians robbed and drove off one hundred animals.

The Gazette of the 18th April says:

Bonneville to join the troops now under orders to move against the Gila Apaches. This expedition has been planned and arranged by Col. There is a bad time in Canada. The Hamilton Banner says the disclosures made by the three Railway Committees which are now sitting in Toronto, and which are bringing to the light of day an amount of fraud and corruption in connection with railway matters, are almost inconceivable. The Toronto Colonist says the great fact which has been clearly ascertained so far, is, that there is great need of a road to the penitentiary from the Parliament House, which is not yet constructed. The Colonist adds that if these things are allowed to go unwhipped of justice, then may every culprit in the land denounce the law of tyranny, which reaches only a ragged coat, and never by any chance penetrates a carriage.

CURIOUS FACIS FROM HISTORY. - The Saxon first introduced archery in the time of Voltigeur. It first introduced archery in the time of Voltigeur. It was dropped immediately after the conquest, but revived by the Crusaders, they having felt the effects of it from the Saracens, who probably derived it from the Parthians. Bows and arrows as weapons of war were in use with stone cannon balls so late as 1640. It is singular that all the statutes for the encouragement of archery were framed after the invention of gunpowder and firearms. Yew trees were encouraged in churchyaids, for the making of bows, in 1482. Hence their generality in church yards in Fng'and.

Coats of arms came into voque in the reign of Coats of arms came into vogue in the reign of Richard I, of England, and became hereditary in families about the year 1192. They took their rise from the knighte painting their banners with different figures to distinguish them in the Crusades.

It was not until 1544, however, that they were cast in England. They were used on board of ships by the Venetians in 1539, and were in use among the Turks about the same time. An ar-tillery company was instituted in England for weekly military exercises in 1610.

Insurance of ships was first practised in the reign of Cæsar, in 45. It was a general custom in Europe in 1194. Insurance offices were first established in London in 1667.

Astronomy was first studied by the Moors, and was by them introduced into Europe in 1201. The rapid progress of modern astronomy dates from the time of Copernicus. Books of astronomy and geometry were destroyed, as infected with magic, in England

The invention of bells is attributed to Paulinus, Bishop of Nola, in Cauipania, about the year 400. They were first introduced into churches as a defense against thunder and lightning in 900. They were first hung up in England at Crovland Abbey, Lincolnshire, in 945. In the eleventh century and later it was the custom to baptize them in the churches before they were used. The curfew bell was established in 1068. It was rung at 8 in the evening, when people were obliged to put out their fire and candle. The custom was abolished in 1100. Bell-men were appointed in London in 1556, to ring the bells at night, and cry, "Take care of your fire and candle, be charitable to the poor, and pray for the dead." THE ROTHSCHILDS AND THE RAILWAY ROBBE-RIES IN FRANCE.—At the meeting of the Northern of France shareholders, which took place in Paris, a scene of almost dramatic interest took place. The shareholders were smarting under the recollection of the Carpentier frauds, and were ignorant of the extent of the company's loss, or of the manner in which it would be borne. Baron James Rothschild rose and addressed the meeting with some emotion; he stated that rather than any malevolent insinua tions should be circulated with reference to the great robbery, prejudicial to the caution or standing of Rothschild's firm, he would willingly pay twice the amount stolen; that under any circumstances the firm of which he was one of the represen-tatives would bear five-sixths of the loss entailed by the fraud of Carpentier and consorts. The most enthusiastic cheering greeted this announcement, the result of which is equivalent to a loss of upwards of £200,000 sterling borne by Messrs. Rothschild.

Persecution in Naples .- The Times's Vienna correspondent writes: A person of great intelligence, who speaks Italiau as duently as he does his native language, has to-day confirmed the information relative to Neapolitan matters which you have from time to time received from me. To my demand whether the torture was used, the following answer was given: "It is certain that the rack is not used. whether the torture was used, the following answer was given: "It is certain that the rack is not used, but the most cruel and barbarous punishments are inflicted on those unfortunate persons who fall into the hands of the infamous Neapolitan police. The favorite instrument of torture is one of the largest sinews of the ox, which is soaked until it becomes perfectly pliable, and this Neapolitan knout is mercilessly used on the bodies of those persons who are arrested on suspicion of being hostile to the government. It is an indisputable fact that men of the highest respectability have been fetched out of their highest respectability have been fetched out of their beds at night and flogged within an inch of their lives.

A Bloodsucker.—We some time back mentioned the extraordinary propensity of a boy, employed to look after cows on a farm at Citer-les-Mello (Oise), for sucking the blood of the animals from an incision made in their necks. His name is Fillion and his age fourteen. He was a few days ago brought before the correctional police of Senlis to answer for his conduct; when, in his defence, he could only say that he was ill: that he felt a nain all over his body his conduct; when, in his detence, he could only say that be was ill; that he felt a pain all over his body which he could not describe, and that he thought he might get relief by drinking the warm blood of living animals. In order to cure him of his monomania, the court ordered him to be placed in a house of correction for two years.—Galignant's Messenger.

A GREAT MEDICINE FOR FEMALES. - Hundreds of stimulants have been invented and sold, purping to be specific in the various diseases and rangements to which the delicate form of woman renders her subject. The result of these stimulants renders her subject. The result of these stimulants has been to impart momentary activity to the nervous system, and false vigor to the muscles, but this relief has been succeeded by a depression and proetration greater than before, and the repeated attempts of invalids to build themselves up by these fulse remedes have finally ended in destroying what little vital organization was left. But in using "Barrhave's Holland Butters," you will find no such disastrous results. It is a purely vegetable compound, prepared on strictly scientific principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Professor, Borrhard Professo nanner of the celebrated Holland Professor, Boer have. Under its influence, every nerve and muscle receives new strength and vigor, appetite and sleep return, and, finally, perfect health.

To the Editors of the Louisville Bulletin:

Gentlement of the Louisville Buttern:
Gentlement One or two of the city papers contained a paragraph, on yesterday morning, stating that the Breckinridge Coal Oil Mills at Cloverport, were destroyed by fire on Saturday last. By enquiry we learn that such is not the case. The mills are in successful operation at present. We hope that all the papers that have copied the paragraph alluded to, will correct the error.

Gen. Walker, accompanied by Col. Jacques, Mr. Pilcher, and Mr. Turner, agent of the Associated Press, proceeded in a carriage to the St. Charles Hotel, where the General made a speech, expressing thanks for his reception, recognising an American love of leberty in the masses, and 2 sured the people that victory was still certain.

The greatest excitement prevailed in the city. The St. Charles was besieged by thousands. Gen. Walker spoke twice.

The California papers discredit the story of Crabb's defeat and execution.

Gen. Walker surrendered because Capt. Davis signified his intention to seize the schooner Grenada, which held Walker's reserve.

Walker was kept prisoner at Panana notwith-standing the terms of capitulation, which allowed him and his officers to retain their side arms and their liberty.

MORE SHOOTING.—An altercation occurred yesterday morning, about 9 o'clock, at Bolton & Dickins's negro mart, between I. B. Bolton and James McMillan, in which the latter was shot twice by Bolton. McMillan will, it is thought, die from the effects of the wounds. The difficulty, we learn, grew out of the sale of a negro to Bolton by McMillan. It appears that the negro sold was entitled to his freedom at a certain time, or on a certain conhis freedom at a certain time, or on a certain conhis freedom at a certain time, or on a certain contingency. As to whether Bolton knew of this fact at the time he purchased the negro, we understand, is in dispute, and produced the difficulty. There are two different versions of the affair. One is that McMillan drew a bowie-knife, which induced Bolton to fire. The other is that Bolton fired without that provocation. It is a question for a jury, and we dismiss the bloody affair with this brief notice. Bolton gave bond in the sum of $12,500 for his appearance at the criminal court. McMillan's residence is Maysville. Ky.

LIFE IN PARIS. Paris, May 3d.

The Baron de Riviere has been a remarkable "swell" about Paris for some time, but the tribunal of correctional police are after him for swindling. City life possesses charms for him. He occupied, it appears, magnificently furnished apartments in the Rue Taitbout, had servants in scarlet liveries, and was seen in rossession of large sums of money; having got jewelry, shawls, and other goods either on credit or on paying a small sum down, and giving bills for the remainder, he disappeared. Among his victims was a jeweler who had sold him a set of diamonds for 23,000f. It was added that on the very day on which the sol disant baron bought the diamonds he sold them to a jeweler for 11,000f., and that, three days after, this jeweler sold them to a brother tradesman for 14,000f. The tribunal condemned the pretended baron to five years' imprisonment and 200f. fine. A young woman named Bruueau who lived with him was tried as an accomplice, and sentenced to a year's imprisonment and 50f. fine.

Rachet is about to return to her dear Paris to pass and 50f. fine.

Rachel is about to return to her dear Paris to pass Rachel is about to return to her dear Paris to pass the summer there, and return to Egypt—and the harem of the French Pasha in Cairo—again in the winter. That she was dying, and had but one lung remaining, have been the reports for a year past, but she has life enough left to put up her beautiful hotel in the Rue Rronchet in a lottery for 300,000fr. This is what may be called "recular pour mieux sauter!" Ristori, her great rival, seems to be on the wane—a little circumstance which is doubtless highly gratifying to Miss Felix. Two years ago she was the rage, and all Paris thumbed the pamphlet plays in French and Italian. Now she excites no attention hardly, whatever. People tind her ennuyeuse and Altieri's Ottavia exceediugly tiresome. She is about to appear in a new drama written for her by Montanelli, nnder the title of Camma. She is also to appear in a translation of Racine's Phedre, and then will proceed to London.

will proceed to London.

Loungers in the rue de la Paix have recently observed in the windows of one of the most fashionable jewelry establishments there a most extraordinary braeelet, the oddity and splendor of which has excited universal wonder. It consists of four rusty, broken, bent, and battered pins! enclosed in a kind of framework arranged to expose them with perfect distinctness, and surrounded by the most precious and brilliant gents. The history attached to this remarkable object is singular. The necessity of caution renders an ambiguous explanation imperative, as the parties are still living.

A long while since, M. Mazeres, finding himself in the vicinity of the Mazarin palace, was grievously wounded while threading his way along a portion of the street undergoing extensive repairs: "On macadamize tout Paris—ne m'academisera-t-on jamais?" He was plunged into a dungeon darker than the soul of his prosecutor, and condemned to solitary confluement. Days, weeks, and months fled, and he continued condemued, but not judged! Torn from his dearest affections and buried in darkness and silence, he felt his body weaken and his mind threatening to lose its power. He was afraid of himself, and determined at all hazards to awaken from the lethargy which he knew would soon render him insane.

Alhough searched from head to foot by the shirris

Alhough searched from head to foot by the shirris at the time of his abduction, he discovered that four pins had escaped their notice, and they immediately inspired him with a means of recreation, which would at least prevent him from absolute mental decay. How could four pins aid him will be asked, and of what use to enliven his solitude and awaken his faculties! The poor prisoner occupied himself during six years in throwing the four bits of wire at hazard about his cell, and then in searching for them to recommence the same feat. This was his only solace—the sole pastime permitted him through all this weary lapse of years. But it served, simple though it appear, to keep him alive, until one day a revolution brought him his liberty. His affectionate wife greeted him on the threshold of his prison and conducted him to his fireside. He related the touching history and exhibited his four pins! A wife's devotion has caused them to be embalmed in jewelry to the value of many thousands of france! Alhough searched from head to foot by the shirris devotion has caused them to be embalmed in jewelry to the value of many thousands of francs!

The recent sale of M. Patureau's paintings in Paris realized 850,000 francs. There were sixty-six paintings, and they formed one of the finest collections in Enrope. The Emperor visited it, and made a choice of some of the rarest works for the Louvre. The National Gallery of London had an agent present, and the struggle to obtain some of the master-pieces was very animated. M. de Niker-que bought for the Emperor for 50,000 francs. que bought for the Emperor, for 50,000 francs, a Halt of Cavaliers, by Wonvermans, which cost originally 1,900 fr., a landscape by the same artist, for 30,000 fr., and for 41,600 fr., the sleeping Jesus, for 30,000 fr., and for 41,000 fr., the sleeping Jesus, by Murillo, which cost M. Patureau only 690 fr., its authenticity being only lately established. The famoulins, of Hobbema, brought 96,800 fr. The Marquis of Hertford paid 46,000 fr. for Gonzales Coques, and 27,700 francs for the Psyche of Greuze.
